

1. ON-LINE SUPPORT FORUM

The concept of a forum is that members can post a variety of questions or “topics” and other members or guests (if allowed) can reply to those topics.

The requirement for access to the Forum is an AKO account.

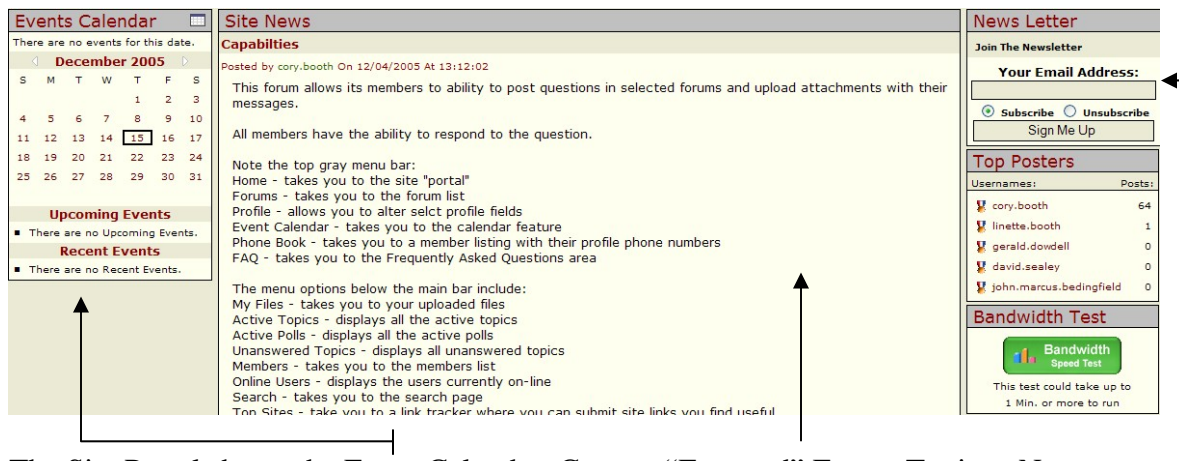

There are three levels of Forum Users:

- Members – any normal user.
- Moderator – a user who owns a certain forum or topics. Some forums, when created, can be locked with a variety of different levels, to include only allowing moderators the ability to reply to posts. A moderator is considered to be the subject matter expert of that particular forum.
- Administrator – a user who has the same abilities as the moderators, but can also modify the forum as a whole, such as color changes, menu changes, etc...

When you first log in you will be taken to the Site Portal and your user details will be in the upper-right hand corner of the screen:

The opening “Home” page is the Site Portal as pictured below:

1.1 Forum Menus

The Forum Main Menu Consists of the below image:

HOME will take you to the screen you are greeted with when first surfing to FSD.

NEWS will take you to the Site Portal Screen.

FORUMS will take you to the Forum list Screen.

PROFILE will take you to a screen to update your profile.

(Updating your profile will allow you to insert a contact email address and other items. These same items are used to build the member "Phone Book")

SUBSCRIPTIONS will show you all the items you are subscribed to.

CHAT will take you to the Chat page

SEARCH will take you to the Forum Search screen.

Directly below the Main Menu is the Supplemental Menu as shown below:

Your Files will show you all the files you have sent in as attachments.

Our Files will show you all the files we currently offer for download from the forum.

Active Topics will show you topics that are currently open and active.

Active Polls will show you all the Polls (or voting) topics that are open.

Unanswered Topics will show you all the topic questions that have not been replied too.

Members show the member "Phone Book".

Online Users show all the users currently in the Forum.

Top Sites show the logged in URLs from users.

Before you enter a topic, please visit the Profile link and update any items you feel comfortable providing. All information entered in this screen will be visible to all members of the Forum. The data is also used to build the member "Phone Book". At a minimum, please provide a good email address as this is the method used by the forum to contact you.

1.3 Posting a Topic

You will be presented with a screen similar to the one shown below:

This screen allows you to specify the screen size you wish your post to look best on.

The format mode:

- Basic: Adds the Forum Code tags to the Message Box
- Prompt: Opens a javascript box for you to put your text in
- Help: Displays an alert box with a description of the button

Changing the format mode and then clicking the desired format button will activate the choice.

Format Buttons allow you to insert special codes in your post to format your text.

Clicking Forum Code will give you a quick run down of some of the different ways you can post your text.

Some of these options can be disabled if the need arises. Your screen may not appear with all the options listed above.

1.4 Attachments in forum posts

Attaching an item to your post or reply will open a screen as shown below:

Add attachment to topic

You may use one of the following file extensions:

- .pdf
- .jpg
- .gif
- .zip
- .doc
- .xls
- .ppt
- .txt

The maximum allowed file size is:
• 976.56 KB

Attach the selected file:

You may select a previously uploaded file from your upload directory as well:

The allowed objects will be listed to the left. Clicking Browse will open a typical Windows Explorer window to select your file. Clicking Attach File will upload the file and insert the appropriate code to your post.

You can reuse prior uploads as well, simply click the Reuse File and you will be shown a list of all your prior attachments.

Upon a successful upload, the below screen will appear:

The file has been uploaded and is now shown in your post.

Filename	attachment.txt
Size	12.83 KB

You may reuse this file in any new post from now on.
In your "profile" you may delete the file in case you do not need it anymore.

Close window.

Simply click "Close Window" to return to your post and see the inserted code.

1.9 Forum Private Messages

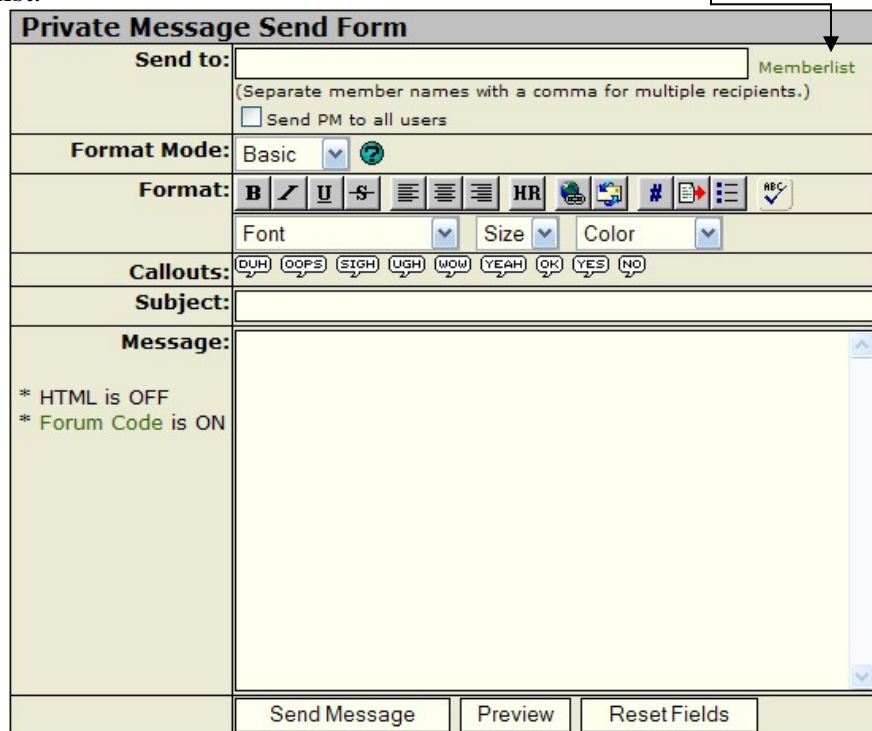

The forum is also equipped with an internal email system called Private Messages. When you logon you will see the below menu bar showing the number of new messages and an icon indicating new messages. Clicking the icon will take you to the messaging system.

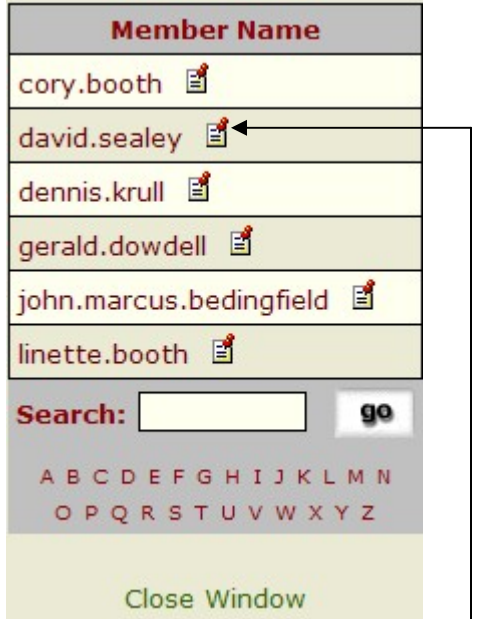

The below screen is the messaging system opening display. Here you will see the list of messages and have to opportunity to send some yourself and change you Private Message options.

Sending a message is almost the same as posting a topic. The Send To line requires the user you wish to message. Type the user's AKO id or click Memberlist to obtain a quick directory list.

A screenshot of the "Private Message Send Form". The form has a title bar "Private Message Send Form". It contains several sections: "Send to:" with a text input field and a "Memberlist" link; "Format Mode:" with a dropdown set to "Basic"; "Format:" with a toolbar containing bold, italic, underline, strikethrough, bulleted list, numbered list, indent, horizontal line, link, unlink, image, and signature icons, followed by "Font", "Size", and "Color" dropdowns; "Callouts:" with buttons for "DUH", "OOFS", "SIGH", "UGH", "WOW", "YEAH", "OK", "YES", and "NO"; "Subject:" with a text input field; "Message:" with a large text area and a note that "HTML is OFF" and "Forum Code is ON". At the bottom are three buttons: "Send Message", "Preview", and "Reset Fields".

The Member display and Memberlist options open the below screen:

Clicking the AKO id will open the user's profile. _____
Clicking the tack icon will put the user's AKO id in the Send To: line on your message window. _____
You can also quickly search this list.

The Private Message Option Screen opens to display the following choices:

Enable/Disable Private Messages
Field Systems Division private messages are currently turned ON. You may turn it OFF below. By doing so you will no longer be able to receive private messages <input checked="" type="radio"/> Enable private messages. <input type="radio"/> Disable private messages. You may turn Private Messages back on by returning to this page

1.11 Forum Chat

The FSD Chat program is designed to allow users the ability to interact with one another using an instant messenger type of interface. Similar to Yahoo, MSN, or the like, FSD Chat allows you to choose a room or create one for yourself. Rooms you create will be removed after a period of time.

Choose a Room and press the Login button to Enter Chat
Use the Logout button to end your session.

Room Name	Current Chatters
<input checked="" type="radio"/> General	0
<input type="radio"/> eMILPO	1
<input type="radio"/> Army-Wide PAI	0
<input type="radio"/> ePAI-Deviations	0
<input type="radio"/> DIMHRS	0
<input type="radio"/> DTAS	0
<input type="radio"/> Theater	0

Or Create a Room:

Login Name: cory.booth

Simply select the room you want to enter or enter a name of the room you would like to create and click Login.

Once in the room you will see a three paneled window.

1.11.1 Who is in the room

The top portion of the screen will reflect those users currently in the room and their updated status (if present). You will also see the name of the Chat Room.

1.11.2 What is being said

The middle portion of the screen will reflect the chats being typed in the room.

1.11.3 The Communication Interface

This bottom portion of the screen allows you to enter your chats, update your status, and select a few emoticons for graphical emphasis, you may also change your text font.

Type a Status Message and click .Update to add a status message at the top of the screen. Change the drop down box from All Users to chat privately with another select user. Type your message and select Send to populate it on the chat room screen.
